WHO DROWNED THE BABIES?

Two Handsome Infants, Apparently Twins, Found Dead in an Outhouse.

Police Put on Their Mettle to Solve the Mystery of the Tragedy.

The police of Capt. Casaidy's Eldridge street station and Coroner's office officials are to-day investigating what looks like an unprecedented case of infantici te. About 11.30 o'clock last night Morris Green berg, the janitor of the $ve-story double-decker tenement at 5 Orchard street, made a horrible discovery in an outhouse in the rear of the building. There are five of these outbuildings, and it is Greenberg's engion to renovate them two or three times a week. He did so Monday, but was surprised to find last night that the machinery emptying the pool beneath one of them would not work. In investigating the cause of this he brought up with a hook the dead holles of two full-grown babies. His shouts brought down several of the tenants, and Greenberg ran for a Patrolman Adem Ruedly took the bodies to the Euzabeth street station, from which they were subsequently removed to the Morgae and the Coroner's office notified.

The bodies were those of a boy and cirl and parently twins. They were porfectly formed, had evidently been sound and in good health, and appeared to be about six months old. Their sam was white and firm. There were tion of decomposition.

Both were loose, white garments, and the police think that the unfortunites had be in thrown into the outnouse and drowned in the mol only a few hours before they were di-rowly escaped death. He was literally pushed out of his berth by the bowsprit of the schooper and had just time to reach the main deck before his cabin became a mass of aplintered timber. Passengers rushed to the deck haif-dressed in great alarm, Several colored men sleeping on the main deck senzed life preservers and tried awawardly to put them on in various Ways. The first sign of life on the schooner was the appearance of a woman who rushed to the side, screamed "My God!" and ran aft.

This woman and two men comprised the en tire crew of the schooner. Investigation showed that the schooner's bow had not penetrated the actual hull of the stnamer, but had demolished the deck states rooms and ruthed the car cabin, where her shador chains held her fast.
The steamer Belle Horton came to the resegn and towed the schooner away, siterwaring sheering the Kasierskill from the close prax-tinity to the roots, where she had drifted.
